Advocacy and Communication Skills

This Module is designed to meet the SRA's aims and objectives and to ensure that you understand and can apply the basic techniques of advocacy.

It will ensure in particular that you can:

- Use appropriate language at all stages of an action;
- Interpret the behaviour of other people involved in a hearing and to be able to respond appropriately;
- Speak and question effectively so as to be able to present all aspects of a case and, in that context, to control witnesses; and
- Prepare and present coherent submissions based on the appropriate facts, law and evidence.

The Module is based mainly on learning by doing. The tutor will introduce the various aspects and you will then put into practice what you have discussed in various exercises. Throughout the Module you will need to demonstrate knowledge of conduct and ethics. This material includes some discussion questions based on the Case Studies.

This Module is not examined, but it is assessed on an individual basis. You will be given feedback on your performance.

Client Care & Professional Standards

This Module is designed to meet the SRA's aims and objectives and to ensure that you understand and can apply the basic principles of professional conduct.

It will ensure in particular that you can:

- Understand and apply in context the relevant provisions of the Code of Conduct, especially Client Relations and Client Care;
- Appreciate the commercial context in which solicitors operate and the role played by conduct rules in that context; and

- Appreciate and apply in context the relevant professional obligations and duties owed by solicitors to their clients, the Court, third parties and other solicitors.

The Module will consist of various sessions focusing on different aspects of professional duties and will involve the consideration and discussion of case studies from practice in small groups.

Financial & Business Skills

This Module is designed to meet the SRA's aims and objectives and to ensure that you understand and can apply the basic rules and regulations which apply to financial services work.

It will ensure in particular that you can:

- Understand and apply in context the rules and regulations surrounding the conduct of financial services work by solicitors;
- Understand and recommend where appropriate the range of investment products which may suit a client's needs and objectives;
- Understand and apply in context the rules relating to financial promotions;
- Understand the law and practice relating to the identification and reporting of suspected Money Laundering; and
- Appreciate the significance and practical effect of the SRA Code of Conduct.

By its nature, this Module will primarily be lecture-based, but it will also feature sessions where you consider and discuss sample questions to test your knowledge and understanding of the various principles.

Full guidance on examination technique will also be given including self-test questions, mock examination and exercises.

The Module culminates in a 90 minute open book examination.

F&BS Examination

The examination will last for 90 minutes.

You will be identified by Candidate Number only. You must attempt ALL questions and all answers must be recorded in the answer book provided. You can write on the question paper but nothing written on the question paper will be submitted for marking.
